Town bands together in time of need

By Judith O'Connor, Director
Millbury Council on Aging

MILLBURY - The telephone rings and a gentleman asks in a timid voice, "Is this the place I call to get some food? I'm unemployed and I have no food for my family." This is one of the many calls received at the Council on Aging Office. Why? Because it is classified as a Food Pantry.

A young woman with two small children calls the District Nursing Society for some food. Her food stamps ran out and she needs food to take her to the end of the month. The District Nursing Society has been providing food to the needy in Town for over 80 years. This year has been extremely difficult as there are many more people out of work and the State and Federal agencies have had major cutbacks in the programs for the needy.

Helping families and elderly in need has always been a high priority with the many agencies and service groups in our town. I refer to the Millbury Lions and Lioness Clubs; the St. Vincent de Paul Society of St. Brigid's, Assumption, and Our Lady of Lourdes churches; Millbury Baptist Church; Raymond Memorial Church; Millbury Federated Church; Millbury Congregational Church; Camp Fire; students of Millbury Memorial High School; the school nurses, the District Nursing Society; and the Council on Aging.

The need has always been there, especially at holiday times. Through the efforts of Tom Woods, a committee with representation from most of the local agencies, organizations, churches and schools was established so that no needy family would go without. A person or family in need may call the District Nursing Society, the Council on Aging, the agency they are familiar with, or the church of their affiliation for assistance with food.

The Asa Waters Mansion is a drop off center for canned goods and non-perishable items: once a year from the Camp Fire, twice a year from the National Honor Society and students, once a month from the Congregational Church and St. Brigid's Church, and once a week from Sam's Club which provides breads and baked goods. Salvation Army vouchers for groceries are also available by contacting Betty Hamilton, Executive Director of the District Nursing Society, or Richard Townsend, Treasurer of the Millbury Savings Bank. Anyone in need is assured of confidentiality.

Volunteers Sophie Marquis, from the Council on Aging, and Phyllis Scully, from the District Nursing Society, are two of the many volunteers involved in coordinating the distribution of food.

Conditions Worsen at Paul Revere

CHRONICLE photos by Alexander A. Belisle

By Andree A. Belisle

MILLBURY - You know the situation is getting worse when Sarah Lilley gets discouraged. Lilley, President of the Paul Revere Condominium Association, is a familiar sight at the Town Hall as she goes from department to department in a relentless effort to find a resolution to problems facing residents of the Grafton Street condominiums, chief among them the breakout of several of the septic systems. The breakout has resulted in a flow of raw sewage (effluent) through some of the yards and streets at the condos.

The Condo Association has filed suit against the developer, Forrow Builders, Inc., Lavallee Bros. Engineering, and the town, alleging that agents of the town failed to inspect or negligently inspected and approved the construction and septic system at the condos.

At a meeting with the Board of Health on February 25, Lilley, whose remarks are often punctuated by a nervous flurry of hands, said she finally had to admit to being discouraged. Her discouragement comes from the fact that over the last month, the situation at Paul Revere has deteriorated to the point where the Board of Health may have no option but to evict some of the tenants.

Listening to Lilley, but not offering much encouragement, were Board of Health members James Dwinell, chairman, and James Morin, Senator Matthew Amorello and Representative Paul Kollios.

Lilley explained that she came before the board because the situation at Paul Revere "has become critical. It's (raw sewage) coming out of the manhole, dead sewer manholes, running across the yards and streets. The problem we have is with the kids, not only kids, but you have people who are walking their pets through this. Septic tanks leaking are running downhill, through parking lots, down Village Green. What doesn't hit the catch basin continues down Bunker Hill and into conservation land. It all ends up in the Conservation Land," she said. When it rains and there's water along the edge of the road, we don't know what it is. We don't know what's coming down the street."

Pointing to a hand-drawn map, Lilley took those present on a visual trip through the complex.

She said it is now feared that some of the effluent is "running straight into, from what people have told us, into their basement win-

This pipe was discovered recently in the woods at the rear of the parking lot shown in the photo to the left. It has not yet been established what is running out of the pipe or where the pipe originates. Discovery of the pipe came when it began to surface recently in the grassy area next to the parking lot.

We The People...

Looking forward to rematch

I just wanted to take the time to thank everyone involved for making the Millbury Police vs. the Little League Coaches Basketball Game on February 20th the great success that it was. In particular, I'd like to thank the anonymous coach (P.D.) that took the time to calculate the age differences between both teams. Most of us in the Police Association were genuinely surprised (?).

But, enough of that, our team is looking forward to next year's rematch where we will even things up. Just don't plan on us spotting you 20 points!

Another Point of View

ENGLISH IS THE FIRST LANGUAGE

By Lawrence Moore

Listening to the Olympic competitors was a shocking experience. It was not who won or lost, it was how they expressed themselves...in English. Whether they were from Europe, Asia, Africa or South America, they all spoke English. These were athletes, many of them young, not career diplomats. Regardless of their national origin, and certainly not because they expected to be interviewed on United States television, they all could express themselves adequately in English.

A more attentive ear to news reports confirmed the expectation. For years and years it has been taken for granted that other nationals spoke English. It was expected, and we ignored what it meant. A Supreme Court Justice in the Philippines spoke English. A Chinese merchant spoke English. A Dutch man-on-the-street commented in English. A Russian housewife spoke English. A Salvadoran commentator spoke English. A Zambian rebel spoke English. On and on it went. They all spoke English.

Now, it might be said that these people were sought out by the media. Perhaps, but how long would it take an overseas newsperson in Boston or even New York to find a man-on-the-street able to comment in French, Dutch, Filipino, Chinese, Russian, Spanish or Bantu?

The Japanese, Chinese, Israelis, French, Indonesians, Zulus, Egyptians, Swedes and dozens of others come to negotiate with us in English because we don't speak their language. The Russian Foreign Minister speaks English, Secretary Baker does not speak Russian. Japanese negotiators know what we are saying, but their conversation is hidden from us.

This does not suggest that we should learn to speak all foreign tongues. It does, however, show that English is accepted in the First World, Second World and Third World as the international communicator. It indicates that English is an essential if not irreplaceable tool for survival in our ever-contracting global community.

In the great immigration years a century ago, newcomers were absorbed into our society in crushing numbers. Most found a better life than they had left behind. Many, very many, prospered and laid the foundation for a myriad of our successful businesses and institutions. AND they did it in schools that taught only in English. They learned English in their communities, in afternoon, evening or night schools. They knew that to get ahead they had to learn English, and they did...at any cost of time and effort. They were not pampered, and they were the better for it: they prospered.

Today, what was to be a brief multi-lingual schooling in "English as a Second Language" has evolved into an interminable program. Lack of proficiency in English has led to inability to compete for jobs, excessive reliance on Welfare, a drain on health and community services, out-of-proportion criminal activity, and a substantial hidden cost to those able to pay taxes. Worst of all, a disservice has been done to immigrants who might contribute to their own and to the country's betterment.

Non-English-literate immigrants should FIRST learn English in special classes devoted only to that purpose: cram courses, if you will, that do the job quickly and efficiently. Only after passing a proficiency test should the newcomers be accepted into regular schools. Time lost will be made up quickly through more rapid comprehension.

Cost? Specialist bilingual teachers will achieve English proficiency much more rapidly. Regular classes will proceed at a faster and more inclusive pace. Native students will not be hampered by the newcomers' struggle with language. There will be a net savings in dollars, but more important, learning will be accelerated. Self-esteem will be enhanced, social acceptance will be more normal. Immigrants will more quickly join the mainstream and will more readily be able to achieve the objective that brought them to the United States.

And the United States will continue to be a great nation fluent in English, because English IS the FIRST language in all the world.

Thank You...

The Millbury Jr/Sr High Athletic Booster Club would like to thank everyone who helped make our alumni basketball game and our Las Vegas nite a huge success. Everyone who attended had a great time. All those who worked and gave up their time, we thank you again.

Millbury Selectmen's Meeting Digest

WRTA may eliminate two bus runs

By Edward J. Cooney

MILLBURY - The February 25 Selectmen's meeting convened at its regular time. Administrative Assistant Earl Chase gave his weekly report, which included information concerning possible cuts in WRTA bus service to Millbury because of a state cap on eligible funding. According to Chase, there will be a loss of 110 driver runs affecting routes that have the least ridership, which for Millbury would be the early morning 6 A.M. run and the late evening run to Millbury.

Board Chairman Jude Cristo questioned the wisdom of those two runs being eliminated as they directly affect working people. He suggested that the WRTA take a look at eliminating a route in the middle of the day. The Board voted to hold a public hearing in town with the WRTA to allow for public input on the proposed changes before cuts are made.

Cap for Retirees

Chase reported on a meeting with County Treasurer Michael Donohue. He said Donohue noted that towns are being advised that because of the lifting of the $30,000 cap for retirees, individual towns will see their costs increased, with Millbury being required to pay an additional cost of $375,000 with the first year's cost at $70,000. He said the increased cost could be spread out. Language for this will be worked out in proposed legislation.

Insurance

Paul Metzger and Steve Walinsky were present as representatives from the Town's insurance carrier, C.D. Whitney Agency. Walinsky presented the Board with a check for $6150 which represents 10% of a full year's premium for insurance. He said the savings reflects the Town's ability to keep workmen's compensation costs under control.

Paul Revere

Chase reported on the reason why the Town's insurance counsel did not appear for a pre-trial hearing on the suit filed by the Paul Revere Condominium Association against the Town. He said Counsel did not show because of confusion that resulted when the Town changed counsel from Kopelman and Page to Hartford Insurance Counsel Frank Buendo. According to Chase, Buendo maintains he was not made aware of the pretrial hearing date in February. The hearing was rescheduled to July 20.

Cristo asked if there was anything going on with the suit. Chase said he has heard nothing but rumors.

Cristo said the town is waiting to hear from the State Department of Environmental Protection. "If people come in from Paul Revere asking about the status," he said, "tell them we are waiting on the State."

Lions Club

The Board met with Wilfred Morin, President of the Millbury Lions Club, who said he was present to get the blessing of the Board for going forward on the Lions Club's plans for the Independence Day Celebration. He reviewed briefly the major events proposed for this year, including: a block party that would include events similar to those held during the town's 175th Anniversary Celebration; Independence Day Parade; chicken barbecue; carnival, July 1-4. The Club will require a food license and a permit for Fireworks on July 3-4.

Lachance moved to support all of the events.

Selectman Donald Gauthier noted that no monies would be available to pay for police details.

Morin said he spoke with Police Chief Richard Handfield who indicated that he might put in a line item in his budget for the details.

Cristo noted that the upcoming fiscal year will be one of the toughest yet, with the possibility of layoffs. "It will be tougher than previous years," he said. "We are looking at a $1.2 million deficit, and it will depend a lot on state aid and whatever money is available. All boards will be treated the same way," he said. Morin asked the Board to look at the economic impact these events have on the town and on those organizations in town which receive financial benefits by their participation. He said the overall benefit to organizations and businesses in town could be as high as $150,000 while the Town's investment over a 3 year period is only $15,000.

Morin asked if the Lions should sponsor a petitioned article for the town funds. In the past, the town has passed an article sponsored by the Selectmen at Town Meeting for $5000 for costs related to an Independence Day celebration.

With respect to the parade which will take place during this fiscal year, Gauthier cautioned that there are no funds available for police details. He said the details can't be paid from next fiscal year's budget for work done during this fiscal year.

Lachance said the police may be willing to wait until next year to be paid.

Morin said that was done in the past and that vacation time was used.

Cristo agreed that that happened last year, "and that's why we have a deficit in this year's overtime account in the police department," he said. "We have to look at it differently. I'm not sure how to handle the overtime. That will have to be discussed with the Chief."

Morin said he was willing to work with the town toward a solution.

Cristo suggested that he meet with both the Fire Chief and the Police Chief to work out details concerning safety issues.

The board voted support of the Lions Club's list of proposed events.

Appointment

The Board took no action on recommending an individual to be considered for appointment to the Board of Directors of Y.O.U. Inc. The state Ethics Commission informed Chase that there could be a conflict of interest if a member of the Board of Selectmen is appointed since they signed the lease for Y.O.U. Inc's use of the old Center School. The conflict would arise when it comes time to either renew or reopen the lease.

Bleau and Gauthier said any board member appointed could step down and not participate in any issues involving the Town and YOU Inc.

Cristo said Board members should be concerned about creating situations where a conflict could arise.

Bleau said he saw the issue as a minor one.

Chase noted that YOU, Inc. has not stipulated that the person appointed must be a member of the board of selectmen.

Lachance suggested that whoever serves as veterans agent could fill the volunteer position. Cristo agreed because he said that position involves human services.

Bleau asked that the matter be tabled another week.

Oak Street

The board received a request from General Development Corporation to improve a section of Oak Street that is partially dirt to allow for additional development on lots on the dirt portion of the road. The letter indicates that the company will be responsible for engineering and construction costs.

Chase said the Planning Board voted against the proposal. The Selectmen will hold a hearing on the matter with abutters notified.

Warrant

The Board has received two citizens' petitions for articles on the warrant for the Annual Town Meeting. One seeks

Cable TV

The Cable TV Advisory Committee has sent a letter to Greater Media Cable, expressing dissatisfaction with the Company's service, rates, recent rate hike, and excessive "SWEEPING" that has caused disruption of service to customers and generated numerous complaints to the Committee from residents paying for the service.

Windle Field Allegations

Town Counsel Kopelman and Page has written to Assistant D.A. Leon Zitowitz asking that allegations of violations of Mass General Law and allegations of criminal wrongdoing by members of the Millbury School Committee be dismissed as it is the town's opinion that there is no evidence of criminal activity on the part of the Town and its agents (School Committee). The matter relates to improvements made to the parking lot and right of way outside of the lease at Windle Field. The allegations were made by Sylvio E. Bourdeau.

"Mr. Bourdeau has made serious allegations against the Town and its employees. The Town has responded to these allegations in an earnest and forthright manner and has cooperated fully in this investigation," Town counsel wrote. "There is no evidence of criminal activity on the part of the Town or its employees. Therefore, the Town asks that this investigation be concluded and that Mr. Bourdeau's complaint be dismissed."

License Renewals

Police Chief Richard Handfield informed the Board by letter that he has completed a check on the status of licenses issued for public entertainment on Sundays at the following locations: Mrs. Barbara Prunier d/b/a/ Bachant's Golden Anchor, Inc. 82 Wheelock Ave.; Melvin Gettan d/b/a/ Millbury Amusement Center, Route 20; James Morin, d/b/a/ St. Charles Hotel, 127 West Main St.,; Emmanouel Tefis d/b/a/ Royal House of Pizza, Inc., 2 Sutton Rd; and The Charles F. Minney VFW Post 3329, 16 South Main St. The letter notes that in all cases, there was no posting of licenses. At the Anchor Lounge, the manager was advised that the license must be renewed if the juke box is to be used on Sundays.

Millbury Amusements had four licenses that expired in 1989: one for a go-cart track, coin operated pin ball machines, bumper boats, and the batting cages. The manager said he would renew the licenses.

The manager of the Roya! House of Pizza said the fee was too expensive and he would not operate the two video machines on Sundays.

At the St. Charles Hotel, renewal licenses are needed for: a juke box, television, radio and video machines.

The Charles Minney Post needs renewals on four licenses: juke box, radio, television, and video machines.

Fire Department Budgets

The Board received a letter from Phil Day, Chief Engineer of the Board of Fire Engineers, recommending that the Forest Fire budget remain within the Fire Warden's budget under the supervision of the Fire Warden. Last week, Fire Warden Tom Nault presented a reduced budget by some $7000 that would come as a result of merging the budget in with the regular fire department budget.

The Fire Engineers also asked that the position of Fire Warden be filled by the same person who serves as Fire Chief and that the FY 92-93 Forest Fire Budget be level funded.

The letter concluded by noting that the Forest Fire Warden did not meet, as requested, with the Board of Fire Engineers on February 24 to discuss the budget. These recommendations were made without his input, according to the letter.

The Board voted unanimously to follow the recommendation of the Fire Chief and the Board of Fire Engineers.

Recycling Efforts

Health Board members James Dwinell and James Morin were present to seek the Board's support for recycling efforts currently underway in Town. Dwinell passed out a copy of a list of items for recycling. He noted that his board is also working through the Environmental Council at the High School to educate the schools on recycling.

Cristo said the Board would be willing to help kick off an awareness of recycling by issuing a proclamation. The Board voted 5-0 to endorse and support the Board of Health's efforts and recycling program.

The meeting adjourned at 10:10 P.M.

dows, into their basements, and running towards the woods at an angle. After the last rainstorm, or the one before, we started questioning people who were getting water in their basement, 'What kind of smells are you getting? The same as usual,' (they replied), 'the stench.'"

Lilley said the residents did not call the board of health to complain because they've had the odor for so long it was nothing new to them.

"So now it's finally gotten to the point where it's so bad, that they came forward," Dwinell asked?

"Because we asked," Lilley replied. "They've had water problems with this particular building since before it was opened. Before occupancy permits were issued. One of the homes even has a well window and even that is not stopping it."

Lilley also said the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) has determined that there is effluent in the area because of the type of vegetation found. "And the vegetation has continued to increase," she said. "A lot of the vegetation shows signs of what you find in an area of effluent."

Lilley also said that she was told by a resident along Grafton Street that he can see the effluent, black trails, coming down through the woods.

Dwinell asked if the tanks had been pumped recently.

"They were all pumped in November," Lilley replied. "One of our problems is, we can spend a lot of money pumping which would take care of the solids in the tanks, but because we have such a high ground water level right now it's not going to do anything but just run right back into the tank, so it's not going to help us in that respect. We can't even walk through any of the complexes," she said, "you need boots. Even when it's cold and the ground is still hard, it's still squishy."

Lilley explained that some of the septic tanks are overflowing, "and there's so much pressure that your inside lid is not even popping off. The water is just coming right over it and then over the riser. Some of them come out of the riser," she said, "some come from around the riser when they overflow."

Dwinell asked how many new problems areas have developed since the board last walked the property and discovered three major breakouts.

"Twenty," Lilley replied. "All but four units. We're looking at 82 families. The biggest problem is, we don't know how much of the groundwater is just rain water and not mixed in with the effluent, and when it hits the streets along the curbing, if it's pure water or it isn't."

"So what happens in the Springtime when the kids get outside and start playing," Dwinell asked?

Lilley replied that her four year old son, Craig, wants to move to a hotel "because he already knows I won't let him play outside this summer," she said.

Dwinell then asked if anyone in the condos has come down with any of the symptoms that go along with the discharge of effluent. "We've had some, most of them you know about," Lilley replied. "I think the latest one was last summer with the bug bite in the child's eye. The other thing we have to take into consideration," she continued, "is this is the flu and cold season. The symptoms you have with the effluent are the symptoms you have with the flu. I told my four year old son not to eat the snow. He ate the snow, came in, and was sick as a dog within a half hour. It could be just a freak thing, but you don't know. We're at a very crucial point where we're looking at 82 families having the potential of either temporarily or permanently leaving their homes. That's where we stand right now, and it's very scary."

Dwinell told Lilley that while he understood the pending litigation filed by the Condo Association against the Town has not been resolved, he still wanted to listen to the concerns of the residents.

"We understand there's litigation," Kollios said, "but the open meeting law still allows you to discuss problems. There's nothing that hinders you from getting an update like you're getting, understanding that the situation is worsening, putting our heads together to see what we can do to help any acute problems now, ask the board (of selectmen) what the prognosis is for a resolution, how long is litigation going to go? Those questions are not detrimental to the reason for going into executive session. We would like to have a meeting of all the boards to see if there is some direction we could take."

"That's exactly what this board was looking for," Dwinell said, "to be able to sit down at a round table to be able to come up with some type of a solution to this problem. It's very unfortunate, very unjustifiable for these people to have to live within these conditions."

Kollios asked what the latest assessment was from the DEP?

"That we're in big trouble," Lilley replied. "That sewers are our only solution."

"They're not at a point where they're going to say to you, you can't live there any longer," Kollios asked? "Somebody's going to say that, the local board of health might say that."

Looking at Dwinell, Lilley said, "If you don't say it, the DEP can order that you do."

"Absolutely," Dwinell said.

"You're looking at 60-75 children (living there)," Lilley said, "and it's difficult to keep them out of the grass. Even mine, for two years that's all he's known is septic being out in the streets or out in the ground. I don't take him out anymore, but I have no idea what I'm walking in myself."

Dwinell noted that the water table is low yet the problems are continuing. "Originally you had isolated problems in a few different locations," he said. "What you're saying now is that your problems are no longer isolated."

Kollios told the board members that regardless of litigation, they still have authority to take action. "It's a public health hazard here and you've got to continually monitor it," he said.

"We don't want to say, okay, everybody has to move out," Morin said. "That's probably the right thing to do," he added.

"I try to stay the optimistic one," Lilley said, "but I no longer can."

As of this writing, Lilley had invited all interested parties, including the selectmen, sewer commissioners, board of health, board of assessors, town planner, officials of the DEP and State Department of Public Health, and state and federal elected officials to a meeting this evening, March 5, at Millbury High School.

Bauer Challenges Kollios

OXFORD - Monica Bauer, of Oxford, has announced her candidacy for the democratic nomination for State Representative in the 7th Worcester District which encompasses the towns of Millbury, Auburn and Oxford. She was born in 1953 in South Omaha, Nebraska.

Bauer received her G.E.D. certificate in 1975, a B.A. in History from Brown University in 1979, a Masters in Divinity from Yale Divinity School in 1982, an M.A. in Political Science in 1988 and a Ph.D. in Political Science in 1989, both from the University of Nebraska. She said she worked her way through college by serving in the National Guard from 1976-79.

Bauer is a founder and the director of the Voter Education Center in Auburn, a non-profit educational project dedicated to increasing citizen awareness of political science. The center opened its doors in October, 1991.

She is also the producer, writer, and host of "Politics Today," a show seen on Auburn Cable Access Channel 13 from October, 1991 to February, 1992; this hour long program was an outreach effort of the Voter Education Center.

Bauer was an Obermann Fellow at the Institute for Advanced Studies, University of Iowa, during the Summer of 1991. She has been an Assistant Professor of Government at Western New England College, Springfield, Ma. since 1989. She was a Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science at Williams College, Williamstown, Ma., during the spring of 1989.

Bauer co-authored a book with Herbert Alexander, "Financing the 1988 Elections." She also had an article published in the February 1989 American Journal of Political Science, "Which Incumbents Lose House Elections?" co-authored with John Hibbing.

She also presented the paper, "Smoke and Mirrors; Campaign Finance Reform, 1990" at a New England Political Science Association Meeting in Worcester and the paper, "Toward a New Ideological Core for the Democratic Party" at a Midwest Political Science Meeting in Chicago, Ill.

Bauer was recruited by the Nebraska Democratic Party to run in the 1984 Congressional Primary against two other candidates. She won two-thirds of the vote and went on as the nominee for Congress to wage a campaign in all 27 counties of the district against a veteran Republican incumbent in a republican district. After that first experience in politics, she went back to school to earn her Masters and Ph.D in Political Science.

While working on her Ph.D. dissertation in 1988, Bauer and her family moved to Massachusetts, "lured by the glowing reports of the 'Massachusetts Miracle.'" After settling in Oxford, she served as a member of the Planning Board in 1989 and was also twice-elected Vice-Chair of the Oxford Democratic Town Committee. She was a delegate to the Massachusetts Democratic Convention in 1990 and served as a volunteer issues advisor to the Bellotti campaign.

In the Fall of 1991, Bauer joined F.A.S.T. (Funding Alternatives for Students Today), a subcommittee of the Oxford School Committee. Project FAST was given the task of raising the money needed to keep extra curricular activities funded for the 1990 and 1991 school years. As a member of FAST, she suggested a new way of raising funds which resulted in her becoming the coordinator of Pirate Pride weekend (the Oxford High teams are known as the Pirates). This effort encompassed a door-to-door canvass of Oxford residents conducted by high school students under adult supervision. Over 100 volunteers were involved. Bauer said this fund raiser was the most successful weekend evening event in the history of the Oxford Schools, raising nearly $28,000 for student activities.

Bauer is currently Vice-Chair of the Oxford Democratic Town Committee and a member of the Auburn Exchange Club and Pakachoag Community Church (United Church of Christ). She is also a member of the American Political Science Association.

Bauer was ordained a Minister in the United Church of Christ in 1982, following her graduation from the Yale Divinity School. She served as Pastor of the Plymouth Congregational Church in Crete, Nebraska, until 1985, when she left the professional pastorate to begin full time graduate study in political science. She remains an active guest preacher and leads worship or adult education workshops several times a year throughout New England.

Bauer's husband Neil is a software developer for Computer Associates in Westwood. Daughter Joanna is in the fifth grade at the Joslin School in Oxford.

Glodis Seeks Senate Seat

WORCESTER - Guy Glodis, of 15 Trenton Street, has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for state senate in the first Worcester and Middlesex District. In making the announcement, Glodis said he is running to bring change and leadership to the democratic party.

He said he was "frustrated with the democratic leaders who have abandoned their working class origins to become a party dominated by special interest groups." Glodis said he is a "traditional democrat" and not "a product of the Dukakis era."

A charter member of the Democratic Leadership Council, Glodis said his campaign will focus on resurrecting the middle class by limiting taxes and bringing incentives for jobs and economic development within the district.

Glodis also said he would work "to institute higher quality and standards in our education system" and would "advocate for workfare, not welfare. Massachusetts can no longer be a magnet for give away programs at the expense of working families," he said.

Glodis, who is a correction officer at the Worcester County House of Corrections, said he would also introduce tougher laws to keep drug dealers and criminals behind bars and would support capital punishment for first degree murderers.

His other priorities include increased housing and protection for the elderly, term limitations for elected officials, increased local aid "and much greater representation for the towns throughout the senatorial district. Our district has been plagued by meek, ineffective state senators," Glodis said, adding that he would be "a strong, outspoken leader on the issues to move this district and state forward."

Glodis is a graduate of Worcester Academy and received his bachelor of arts degree in Political Science from the University of Massachusetts in Amherst. He is a member of Laborers Union 243, Grafton Hill Neighborhood Association, College Hill Civic Association, A.O.H., Knights of Columbus Alhambra, an associate member of the Main South American Legion Post, and was elected to the Ward 6 Democratic Committee in 1988.

Kehowski Named Finalist

MINNEAPOLIS, MN - Shaun Kehowski, a senior at Millbury Jr.-Sr. High School, is one of 1,000 finalists in The Jostens Foundation Leader Scholarship Program for 1992. Scholarship recipients will be announced in April. Selection of finalists and recipients is based on outstanding achievements in school and community activities, leadership experience, and academic excellence.

"The students selected as scholarship finalists are the leaders of tomorrow," said Ellis F. Bullock, executive director of the Foundation. "They stand apart not only because of their superior academic achievements but because they've taken leadership roles in improving their communities."

Nutrition Hotline

HATHORNE, MA - Are you eating right? During March, Massachusetts residents can call in their nutrition and food safety questions on a hotline set up by the University of Massachusetts Cooperative Extension System. Extension nutritionists and home economists will answer consumer concerns on fat, cholesterol, fiber, food safety, and general dietary guidance. The hotline will operate Monday through Friday, 10-3 during March only. The toll free number is 1-800-622-3937.

SUTTON - The full Board of Selectmen met on February 25 for their regularly scheduled meeting.

Town Administrator's Update

Town Administrator Dexter Blois presented the board with a letter from Police Chief John Annis in which he complimented the Sutton Police Department who, in cooperation with the police departments of Millbury, Grafton, Douglas, Uxbridge and many other parties including The Sutton Fire Department and the Highway Department, arrested two suspects for larceny of a motor vehicle. Annis wanted the board to be aware of the excellent team work between departments which led to the arrest.

New Business

Town Accountant Ken Redding was asked to come before the board and explain the Enterprise Fund which was established by the State for self supporting operations like water and sewer departments. The state also allows other departments like the Recreation Commission to work under the Enterprise Find.

Redding explained that the Fund would be appropriate if the town wanted the Recreation Commission to use the revenue it collects to operate the recreation program. He told the board that with this program, the revenues collected as part of recreational activity fees would be tracked and set aside for purposes of the recreation department. The Recreation Commission would still have to submit a budget for the Annual Town Meeting which would then have to be approved by the meeting.

With the Fund, however, the Assessors would note that the money allocated at the town meeting is being matched by revenues taken in by the commission. The advantage is that the commission could generate a surplus which then could be used at a later time for some capital project. He said surplus funds would stay in the "retained earnings" account of the recreation department. Redding said that the department could not run a deficit. If the revenues collected were not adequate to underwrite the programs budgeted at the town meeting, then he would have to certify that amount to the assessors who would then have to raise that money on the next year's tax rate. If a deficit was anticipated, the town could appropriate monies into the Enterprise Fund.

Redding said he saw no advantage to the Enterprise Fund if the recreation Commission was going to run a deficit because under the present system, "What is raised from (recreation) fees comes back in as an estimated receipt, and the effect on the tax rate is the same as if you had not set up an Enterprise Fund. The Enterprise Fund only makes sense if you think you're going to have surpluses," he said.

Selectman Wally Johnson observed that neither Camp Marion nor any other program could be expected to be self sufficient in the first years of operation. He said last year's receipts from Camp Marion were not sufficient to offset the cost of the program.

Redding said Enterprise Funds are usually set up by departments that want to use the surpluses they generate for their own purposes. Redding, in answer to a question from board member Mary K. Connor, explained that if the Recreation Commission were to use the Enterprise Fund, they should also factor in depreciation of the facilities and the portion of his and other town employees time as an overhead expense to charge to the Recreation Department. He said if the commission has not raised enough to pay for their programs much less these other expenses, it is not advisable that they use the Enterprise Fund.

Selectman Mike Chizy observed that the fund would give the commission leeway to do certain things at Camp Marion without having to have those expenses budgeted by the town. He feels that the commission can charge a reasonable fee and begin generating monies needed to fix up Marion's Camp.

Connor disagreed, saying she felt strongly that very few residents would be willing to pay fees which would allow for a surplus to be created. She argued that higher fees could discourage enough present participants from taking part in activities and, instead of increasing revenues, actually decrease them.

Recreation Commission Chairman Neil Newton explained that last year the commission had $14,800 allocated by the town for programs. There were approximately 460 participants. He said dividing the number of participants into the amount allocated indicates that it would cost each participant in the programs between $32 and $35 dollars more per function to participate. He gave an example of $35 added to the $26 fee for swimming lessons. He asked how many parents could afford to pay or would pay $61 per child for swimming lessons. He said that last summer he sold 75 passes at $40 per pass. "If the fee is upped to $80, how many am I going to sell?" he asked.

Both Newton and commission member Harvey Bileau said they saw no advantage to the Enterprise Fund over the existing Revolving Account at this time.

This summer, the Recreation Commission has funds to sponsor a swimming program only. There will be no lifeguard on duty to supervise general swimming.

Dog Complaint

Blois notified the board that Shiloh, the dog of Kevin and Christine Sherry of Eight Lots Road, who has been the subject of complaints by neighbors, was picked up on a warrant executed for the selectmen by Dog Officer Richard Wunschel.

At the last selectmen's meeting, the Sherry's were ordered to construct a kennel to house the dog which, according to neighbors, has attacked people on several occasions. They were given 30 days to comply and the board ordered that until such time as the kennel is built, the dog was to be kept on a run and muzzled.

Wunschel told the board he was notified that Shiloh was running loose and had been in a dog fight. He stopped at the police station to get some help and was accompanied to Eight Lots Road by Officer Ronald Annis. He described how the dog was running up and down the street when he and Annis arrived. He said the dog was not muzzled. He said he later called and talked to Kevin Sherry who surrendered the dog.

Rabies Clinic in Millbury BOH Warns of Expected Outbreak in Massachusetts

MILLBURY - The Millbury Board of Health will hold a rabies clinic on Saturday, April 4, at the Fire Headquarters on Elm Street. Dogs will be inoculated from 10-11:30 a.m. and cats from 11:30 a.m. to noon. The cost is $7.00 per animal. All animals must be restrained.

The Massachusetts Department of Public Health has announced that they expect an outbreak of wildlife rabies to reach Massachusetts this year. This is the first time the outbreak has extended this far north and east.

Since it is possible that the outbreak may continue to spread, it is important that several steps be taken to minimize the risk of rabies among domestic animals and, consequently, people.

1. All domestic animals, particularly dogs and cats, should be immunized against rabies. By law, dogs must be vaccinated. Cats are hunters by nature and often come in contact with animals at high risk for rabies. In fact, more rabid cats than dogs are now identified each year in the U.S. Domestic animals serve as the bridge between wildlife rabies and people. Protecting pets and livestock is a major step toward protecting communities.

2. People should avoid wild, stray or unfamiliar animals. They should not handle sick, injured or dead animals. Animal control officers should be called instead. Contact the Millbury Board of Health at 865-4721.

3. Raccoon populations have become dependent on humans and, therefore, large numbers of these wild animals are living close to people. Provide raccoons as little food as possible. Keep all garbage cans securely closed, and clean up any garbage promptly. Raccoons are scavengers and can feed off of all sorts of trash.

The cost of not vaccinating your pet could be very high. Veterinarians and public health officials will recommend immediately euthanizing unvaccinated pets that may have been exposed to rabies.

Anyone bitten by any unfamiliar animal should immediately wash the wound with soap and water for at least five minutes and contact a physician. The Board of Health must also be notified of any animal bite.

Lenten Services

GRAFTON - The Union Congregational Church of South Grafton, 88 Main Street, will hold the first of its special lenten services on Sunday, March 8, at 7 p.m. with Dr. Peter W. Stines presenting a dramatic play. Public invited.

Walk for MS

WORCESTER - On Sunday, April 5, over 700 area residents will pound the pavements to help fight multiple sclerosis. Last year, nearly $47,000 was raised.

The local event is part of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society's fourth annual Super Cities Walk. Across the country, 250 walks will take place during the weekend of April 4 and 5. The 15 kilometer event will begin at 10:00 a.m. at Elm Park, wind through Worcester, including three stops for nutritious snacks, entertainment, and end at Elm Park where walkers will enjoy a picnic lunch.

Each walker will raise money by recruiting sponsors to pledge a certain amount for each mile completed. In addition, prizes will be awarded.

There are over 6,000 individuals affected by MS in Massachusetts. MS is a chronic, often disabling neurological disease affecting more than a quarter of a million Americans. Funds raised will support the National Multiple Sclerosis Society's research into the cure, prevention and cause of MS, and also health-related services for people with the disease.

To join in this event, to sponsor walkers, volunteer or form a challenge team of 4 to several 100 individuals, call Kristen Duran at the MS office at 508-842-2223.

Wunschel said the Sherry's have found the dog a suitable home with Mrs. Sherry's aunt who lives in Wilmington, Massachusetts. The dog is presently in the custody of Wunschel.

Selectman Rick LaBonte said the Sherry's have ignored the selectmen's order and moved that the dog be removed from Sutton. He added that the Sherry's should be notified that if that does not happen, the dog will have to be destroyed.

Connor asked Blois if he was going to notify the dog officer in Wilmington and check with the party who was going to accept the dog.

Blois said Wunschel will not turn the dog over until the dog officer in Wilmington has been notified and there has been confirmation from the Sherry's aunt that she is willing to take the dog.

From My Window on Farnsworth Court

By "Pastor Rae" Cameron

There was an article in a newspaper that stated that New York City has spent billions of dollars on the homeless and the situation has not improved in the least. The suggestion is that government get out and let the charitable organizations do the job. With government and large bureaucracies like the United Way, there is too much wasted money at the top which doesn't get down to where it is needed.

Being right beside the city of Worcester, our local churches contribute to many of these organizations. Two of us prepare a meal for the John Street Baptist Church where almost 150 people are fed every Saturday. Millbury Baptist makes a contribution to the "Cross Roads Ministry," which is an evangelical outreach to people on the street. They not only feed and clothe them, but they introduce them to a new lifestyle that comes from a saving knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ. Recently, they purchased a nursing home where they can have residents learn more about their new life in Christ.

Every year I seen signs up in front of our Roman Catholic churches advertising their "Bishop's Fund." I'm sure these funds are well used to help out those in need in our area.

Having just spent some time in a hospital, and undergoing chemo treatments as well, I know that the expenses are really great. Our politicians are making a great deal out of this and are determined that the government has to get involved. Something surely has to be done, but I'm not so sure that the government is the answer.

Talk on Rabies

SUTTON - Due to the expected outbreak of rabies in Massachusetts, the Hillside Club will present a talk on this subject by wildlife biologist Tom Decker of the Division of Fisheries and Wildlife on March 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the West Sutton Community Hall, 659 Central Turnpike.

Decker will explain how raccoon rabies affect dogs and cats and how these animals spread it to humans. He will also discuss ways of protecting animals and humans. The public is invited. A free will offering will be taken, and refreshments will be served.
